An Examination of Illegal Activity in the Processing of Foreclosures

The documentation enclosed is intended to educate recipients about the criminal activity occurring within the foreclosure process. This study was initiated after borrowers were foreclosed on during the trial modification period, short sale processing period, and modification processing period. It has been observed borrowers responsibility requested accounting verification, made proper and regular payments, and filed correct paperwork for processing. Yet, the foreclosure proceeded, robbing the borrowers of due process.

It has also been observed that judges are not requiring the foreclosurs entities to produce proper documentation, and the foreclosure process is being allowed unchecked.

It is this writer's hope that the provision of this information will cause change and accountability within the courts, the mortgage servicing companies, and the attorneys and processors in the default management functions.
